

When Jesus Meets Us at the Door

What if Jesus is not waiting for your life to look clean before He comes close?

Bible Study

Zacchaeus was not the person people expected Jesus to visit. He had money, influence, and a public reputation that carried shame. Yet Jesus looked up, called him by name, and chose his house. That moment changed a man, a home, and the people watching.

Revelation 3:20 gives the same picture in one sentence: Jesus knocks, speaks, waits, and promises fellowship. He does not force the door open. He invites a real response.

The first step is not to perform. It is to open. Pray honestly, read one Bible passage, confess what is true, and take one Spirit-led step of love. That is the kind of beginning God can grow.

Practical Steps

- Read Revelation 3:20 and Luke 19:1-10.
- Pray: Jesus, I hear You. Help me open the door honestly.
- Choose one next step: apologize, forgive, ask for Bible study, or serve someone quietly.

Sources

Revelation 3:20: <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Revelation%203%3A20&version=NKJV>

Luke 19:1-10: <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Luke%2019%3A1-10&version=NKJV>

Steps to Christ: <https://egwwritings.org/book/b108>